The Fellowships Visiting are awarded for the purpose of collaboration with the following research programme of the Department of Management, - abstract:

"Is the one of managerial rhetoric, seen as cultural and linguistic device instrumental to construct social and political identities for business firms to make them appear beneficial to society and the collective good. A central issue is the one of the production (and the producers) of new concepts, buzzwords, models and fashions that are constantly circulated (to then rapidly disappear) to represent business firms and their products as something different from self interested utility maximizers. During their stay at Ca' Foscari, scholars are therefore expected to contribute to a critical discussion on the capacity of the managerial language to attribute ever new forms to the political role and social impact of business firms”.
