WP3.2.1, WP3.2.2, WP3.2.3, WP3.3.1, WP3.4.1, WP3.4.3, del Progetto INTERREG MED 2014-2020: SMATH – Smart Atmospheres of social and financial innovation for innovative clustering of creative industries in MED area CUP H37G18000050005.

Abstract:
The objective of the SMATH project is to strengthen the competitiveness of creative industries in the MED area by structuring “Smart Atmospheres” as innovative clustering of cultural engines and value enhancing services. SMATH raises awareness of the need to better connect cultural productions and business interests in order to fully develop the potential of creative industries. The relation between cultural productions and creative business has so far been more theorized than practiced. Abstract model assume that a “cultural core” would almost automatically inspire new creative entrepreneurship. Policy evaluation and evidence from research have shown that is rarely the case. Culture and creativity may sound close in theory but in practice they tend to operate within distinct modes of production that may even diverge. The project capitalizes on this evidence to give shape to a new, specific spirit of collaboration between culture and creativity. Social innovation is proposed as the trigger of such an improved connection that would be implemented with the creation of Smart Atmospheres. It is indeed through the multiplication of social ties and the strengthening of relational bonding that smart atmospheres area generated. In particular, the objective is to embedded in richer collaborative atmospheres the two aggregates of “cultural engines” and “value enhancing services”. Such social innovation will be sustained with greater mutual knowledge, cross-fertilization and a highly focused development of practice-based models and tools.
