Description
The Department of Economics at Università Ca' Foscari Venezia invites applications for a fellowship in:

- Title:

  The role of early childhood status and education for job opportunities: studying profiles of jobs over the life cycle in the SHARELIFE sample and other micro-data with a focus on migrant population.

- Academic Discipline or disciplines specifically identified by the call SECS-P/01
- scientific coordinator and tutor: Prof. Agar Brugiavini
- duration: 12 months

abstract:
The aim of the project is to relate the early childhood conditions and the knowledge and abilities offered by education on the working life of individuals, with a focus on migrant populations. The aim is to establish the opportunities offered by the education system and the nature of inequalities in the job type and/or wage profiles. The basic sample is SHARELIFE, taking into account the changes that occurred over time in terms of jobs and skills. The researcher will use different data sets in the project: first, the data from different waves of SHARE (Survey on health, aging and retirement in Europe) and from SHARELIFE. Then the researcher will have to relate the data to other micro-data in order to document the evolution of human capital for the migrant population

Who can apply
Prospective candidates are expected to hold a master’s degree in the subjects of the research, or related disciplines
