The NICHE Centre for Environmental Humanities of Ca' Foscari University of Venice, having regard to the resolution of the Scientific Committee of the 17/11/2025 establishing the research programmes for awarding of the short-term research fellowship on Interdisciplinary Approaches to the study of Biodiversity Diplomacy lasting n. 12 months, with the possibility of renewal within the limits of art. 4 of the Regulations for awarding of university short-term research fellowships. The expected starting date is approximately April 15th, 2026

The short-term research fellowship is awarded for the purpose of collaboration within the agreement the NICHE Centre for Environmental Humanities and Unione Buddhista Italiana Rep. 4/2026 Prot. 52006 del 17/02/2026 - abstract:

Biodiversity loss represents one of the root causes of the climate crisis and a systemic threat to global ecological, economic, and social stability. However, while the concept of climate diplomacy is now well understood—in terms of negotiation strategies, legal instruments, advocacy capacity, mobilization of transnational movements, and technological cooperation—biodiversity diplomacy remains understudied, both in academia and within both multilateral and national institutions. The research project calls for a transdisciplinary study of biodiversity diplomacy, capable of integrating international environmental law—and its evolution toward the recognition of the rights of nature—the natural sciences, international relations, political economy, and cultural studies. The project aims to challenge anthropocentric categories of international biodiversity law, and to define a theoretical and operational framework for biodiversity diplomacy, contributing to the construction of a conceptual and empirical framework that is still lacking in the current landscape of scholarship.
