Title - A big data approach to firms performance evaluation and forecasting

- start of the programme: The research programme envisages the start of the activity approximately in October 2026
- scientific coordinator and tutor: Prof. Roberto Casarin
- duration: 24 months,

abstract:

The project aims to develop composite indicators for measuring firm performance and econometric forecasting methods using big data. Machine learning techniques will be integrated into econometric models. Moreover, using quantitative tools, the indicators may combine information from firms' financial statements with experts' opinions on the relevance of individual indicators, collected through questionnaires. Integrating quantitative and qualitative information will provide a more comprehensive and detailed assessment of firms. Particular attention will be devoted to identifying the main drivers of performance and evaluating the predictive accuracy of the models. The results may also support the decision-making processes of firms and financial market participants. The analysis will be conducted using financial statement data from Bureau van Dijk's AIDA database, applying econometric models and machine learning techniques.
